

19th International Congress of Classical Archaeology

Cologne/Bonn, Germany

Additional marketing opportunities

The International Congress of Classical Archaeology is the largest and most widely renowned exchange forum for the archaeology and cultures of the ancient Mediterranean World. The focus is on Greek and Roman civilization, but also on all neighbouring cultures. The event offers an exceptional opportunity to reach out to a wide academic community. More than 1000 scientists from 42 countries, representing all fields of historical humanities, will participate. The International Congress of Classical Archaeology has always attracted significant public interest as well as media attention.

Aside from a book exhibition/exhibitor fair we provide additional marketing opportunities; please find additional information below.
